

Name: Kathleen Knapp

One sentence that describes me and my writing:

Kathleen shares encouragement through relatable stories of love, hope, grief, and the struggles of daily life in a modern world, from a Christian faith perspective. Through her personal experience as a parent raising children with special needs, and grieving the death of her son, she shows understanding and compassion for the parent who is struggling, feeling isolated, and losing faith.

Brief bio: Kathleen Knapp is a retired Registered Nurse, living in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Canada. She and her husband have three adult children—two earthbound and one heavenside. Kathleen is an author and speaker. She loves travelling, pickleball, coffee, and chocolate. For more, find her at www.KathleenKnappWriter.com.

Why I write: To bring glory to God, using my story of grief and hope to help others who are experiencing broken hearts through grief and loss. I promised God to be a good steward of my story to bring him glory.

I write: Nonfiction: articles, personal experience stories, devotions - Genres: Memoir book.

I've been published in Chicken Soup for the Soul and Guideposts

I have published one or more books available on Amazon: Two devotional books, two journals, one coloring book, and my latest book "Speechless: A Mother's Memoir of Caregiving" is a memoir of my life with my son.

https://www.goodreads.com/author/dashboard?ref=nav_profile_authordash

My audience is Christians, the general public, and specifically women

I'm currently working on: A non-fiction Christian living book about hope & grief using personal stories and compatible biblical stories.

My greatest joy and/or struggle in writing is: My greatest joy is when someone has been touched by the words I've written. My greatest struggle is managing my time with all the projects I'm working on, especially the marketing of my message.

I'd like to meet writers who: are interested in a writers' group. I'd love to connect with other Canadians in this group.

Email: KathleenKnappWriter@gmail.com

Website & Blog: www.Psalm139Promises.com

City & State (or Country): Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Canada

